[MC] Welcome to the Limitless Women Podcast. Our mission is to help women business owners, like you, grow profitable businesses and actualize your opportunities to serve and give to yourself and others. Here's your host, the founder of Limitless Women, Laura Gisborne.

[Laura Gisborne] Welcome to today's episode of the Limitless Women podcast. I am so excited to share today's episode with you. In this episode, I've interviewed a good friend of mine, Priscilla Stephan, who is an intuitive business strategist and the creator of the Soulfluent Leadership Archetypes®. Priscilla has a really special gift and talent. She uses a combination of what she knows as a practical business strategist, and she has a superpower where she taps into your soul's guidance through the Akashic records. When I read this book, her new book, Soulful Leadership Business Guide, I thought, "Oh, was going to be kind of fun and maybe just, you know, a light easy read. And what I found instead is that I was blown away by all the different components of how to use this guide in my own business. And I'm just excited to share it with every woman that I know. You're going to be thrilled with what you hear today about the different levels of how who you be and how your own soul's calling and purpose and mission lines up to have you lead a business that not only is fulfilling for you but is also magnetic to your ideal clients, through your branding, through your messaging, through your colors. This guide is absolutely fantastic. So I'm super excited to get you started learning more about Priscilla's work.

[Laura Gisborne] Let's get started. Okay. Thank you so much. My friend for being with me today, it's just wonderful to see your beautiful face, Priscilla. And I just appreciate your flexibility with me and making our times work today. I'm really excited that we have an opportunity to speak today. Thanks for being here.

[Priscilla Stephan] Thank you so much for having me.

[Laura] Yeah. So, you know, the purpose for me of having this interview with you is to let the women of our community know about this beautiful body of work that you've put together. And, you know, I'd love for you to let us know kind of, where the impetus came from and tell us a little bit more about the soulful leadership movement as I would like to see it become. You know, the book is an incredible workbook. I'm going to talk more about all the different facets of it that I was saying to you before we started recording, I was so pleasantly surprised. You know, I was reading it for what I thought was going to be some good information. And what happened instead is as I started to take the assessment, and as I started to read my archetype and I started to read some of the other archetypes and I started to see the branding colors and the language used for marketing and branding, I was like, this could be just a guide. I referred to it when I speak before like a Bible, this would be a Bible for somebody to go back to again and again, as a woman in business and as a leader to tap into resources that are very uniquely targeted to our own personalized leadership style. So that's why I'm a big fan. Talk to us a little bit more about the book and what you've created here; I'm calling it a movement because I want everybody to have it.

[Priscilla] Thank you so much for allowing me to talk to your community and for a great assessment of the book. So the book is called the Soulfluent Leadership Business® Guide: Amplify Your Message, Visibility and Profits by Leveraging Your Archetype. So bottom line and sigh of relief, we are all brilliant. This book is a visual audio kinesthetic reminder of how brilliant we all are naturally without even trying. And I think we have all sometimes against our better judgment, followed success, blueprints and formulas that promised success, but left us frustrated, burned out, disappointed, disheartened, and wondering am I really cut out to do business? Am I broken here? How come other people seem to do it and I can't? And then also we feel unaligned and not fully expressed and shining through in the work that we're doing, either in the energy, in the words we use in the tone. And so this book gives us full permission to come out of hiding and to stop well hiding behind formulas and templates and frameworks that suppress or compartmentalize the genius that we already have innately within us. The Soulfluent Leadership Business® Guide is here to help us become fluent masterful in our innate brilliance and leadership style and strengths. Hence soul fluency you know, when you think of being fluent in a language, you don't think, how do you construct that verb? You just like, "blah, blah, blah". It's just who I am. Right?

[Laura] They're saying you're fluent. You think in that language, right? You're not always having to process and translate.

[Priscilla] No, it's becoming an innate part of you. And so the guide, as you said, started a couple of years ago. Well, just, as I was on the path to freedom at your conference in October 2016 and I took the stage, you were so grateful to have me on when this was just budding a, as a concept, as a body of work. You know, this all started when my own guides asked me to channel this little book, which became a body of work to help leaders really step into their full potential and create a world where everyone thrives and where we create win, win, wins, where thriving isn't just for the select privilege few, but for all. How can we make business and life decisions that affect where we look at the ripple effect of that? Right? So in business, if you make a decision about your team or your branding, your supplies, you know, the conferences you speak at, where put your resources, are you looking at, you know, what is the impact to my team, to my branding, to my clients, to myself, to my well-being, to the planet.

So really Soulfluent Leadership® is that invitation to be fully expressed, nourished and whole, as you create a world that supports everyone because so much of leadership up until this point has been a kind of masculine kind of me focused approach to, you know, how do I succeed in the world? And so fluent leadership is how do we all succeed in the world? It goes from me to the we. So going back six years ago, I got this body of work and there are five archetypes, right? There's the mystic, the visionary, the strategist, the explorer, the divine feminine, you can share later, let's keep it a secret for people. What is yours isn't mine. And so I developed, I channeled this whole body of work, 160 pages, and I just left it there, because I had kind of a nervous breakdown. After all, I couldn't understand the material. I didn't want it. I had an identity crisis. And I said if I don't understand it, how can I market it or educate other people? So that was the whole thing. And that becomes the ascension journey in the book is kind of that journey that we all go through as we answered the call to step into our leadership. Right? And so then two years ago was on a Zoom call with an acquaintance from Facebook she does branding archetypes and she was talking about how she was applying all this stuff to practical areas in business. And I thought, you know, wouldn't it be nice if you could give like my archetype framework to your branding person, to your graphic designer, to your copywriter, to your business coach and say, look, this is me in a nutshell, how can we translate my energies, my innate strengths and talents into all different aspects of a business. So I had a thought, well, I will create a 10-page PDF. You know, we know what happens when I say 10-pages or 30-pages. But honestly, I know it's like 10 page PDF. So I went to my guides and I said, "Okay, if you want me to write this, just give me something". So I began writing 10-pages turned into a matrix and 30 pages and I was like, "Hmm, I have got to keep going". And then 50 and then 100.

And then I thought, well, we should really add some business examples so people can see examples of what a mystic business looked like or a visionary business looked like. And so then it became 222 pages, eight and a half by 11 full-color, coded archetypes. 15 businesses are illustrated here. And you also look at every archetype. We look at your branding, your manifesting style team, building business model, messaging, offers, pricing, your leadership energy, your strengths, your kryptonite, and your pitfalls. How do you manage that? Your manifesting style. Gosh. What else, let me go to the page of content, like your mindset. We also look at reflection questions, you know, what does it mean to be a visionary? How have you handled the ups and downs of, you know, maybe you want to fit in when you're really meant to stand out? You know, as a defined feminine, what is your relationship to structure when you really want to stay in flow? When you're a mystic, how do you embrace your spiritual tools and allow that to shine through in your work and take center stage when you might still be afraid of what people think, you know, and you might still be hiding in the spiritual closet? Right? And then how do we unhook from these old notions of leadership right? Of the ego of what success looks like and what a leader should look like or sound like, or be like, or dress like? Am I too soft? Am I too loud? Am I too annoying? Am I too obnoxious? Am I too disruptive? Am I too meek? And I think so much of that is just coming unhooking from those old programming notions. And understanding and embracing perhaps for the first time who we are as a leader defined by us, not by anyone else.

[Laura] Well, it's so interesting. So when we speak a lot of positive language of purpose and following your passion and, and in business is so much more of those things more than those things. But without those things, it tends to lose all the juice. Right? So what I was excited about is just when I see a woman who is very successful in business. What I know is that she's figured out her flow she's figured out how to be, who she is. Right? And we tend to have a mature audience. We always say that Right? We are a mature community. So most of us have spent a lot of years on that journey trying to figure it out. What I was really pleasantly surprised by was when I first took the assessment I was like, "Oh that's not me. And then I started reading. I was like, "Oh my gosh, that's totally me. Right?" And then I read the other ones. It's kind of like astrology. I like reading the other ones. I'm like, am I a little bit of this? Am I a little bit of that? But I saw the comprehensive nature of it and how it was so resonant for how I lead. And it was just a fascinating thing because my first reaction was like, "Oh, there's no way she's going to figure that out that quickly". But the assessment was really powerful for me. And I think that that's what I'd like to encourage everyone to do is to get the book, take the assessment, and really give yourself permission to be seen through a different lens than you may have seen yourself in the past. And so what that leads me to is a question I want to go to Priscilla is, you know, I'm thinking back to when you and I became friends years ago. And I had a session with you for spiritual guidance. And one of the things I love about working with you and being your friend is you're always so kind, you're so generous and so accepting. And I could hear your voice in the book, right? When you were telling your story. I want to hear more about the process, the Ascension model and your own journey with that because you touched on it briefly here, but I want to go a little deeper into that because I feel like part of what you've gone through has had you really bring this body of work to the world in a very present way.

[Priscilla] Thank you. The Ascension journey actually was the last thing I added to the book actually, which was surprising, because I had kind of forgotten about it. Maybe it was just like, 'aah'. You know, but it was very important to me because as I was going through the Ascension journey, I didn't know I was going through it. So I thought I was losing my mind. I had no context. I really was losing myself, I was getting stripped of all of my old identity, but what it felt like was a very long 18 month, dark night of the soul inquiry with mild thoughts of God. Is life really worth living here? It was really, you know, deep and harsh. And so I wanted people to know that if they are going through what can feel like an identity shift or an existential crisis or feeling like everything that they valued or everything that they saw themselves as suddenly feels like it's not resonating anymore and they have a roadmap of where they're going next that they're not crazy. It's part of the journey. Just keep putting one foot in front of the other. And the light will come through at the other side. But really there are six steps as I identified through my journey and seeing through clients as well. And the first one is kind of the awakening, the initiation of sorts, you get the call, right? You feel that urge or whether it's a nudge or a major life event happens. And you're like, okay, something is shifting. I'm feeling a call to do something either more purposeful or more meaningful. I may not know what that is, but the call is here. Like something's knocking at my door, right? Then comes the denial. I'm not a leader or this is too big for me. How the hell am I going to do that? I've never done that.

[Laura]

You are the wrong person. Yeah. This is my conversation with God. I think you've read the wrong person. We give this to somebody else, please.

[Priscilla]

Or like, yeah, no. Or that's too big, too much too expensive. I'm not equipped for this and I call it denial like this isn't for me. Then step three is eventually kind of coming to terms with this after you self-negotiate, try to self-opt out and go, okay, I'm going to choose in. I'm opting in. Right? So it's a conscious decision to say yes. And still, asking yourself, can I really handle this? Okay. I'm saying yes, but oh man now? And then step four is the identity crisis, right? Where you find yourself in order to step into this calling, all the beliefs that you had about yourself, about leadership, about what you could rely on, lean on, patterns, beliefs, old ways of being like, it's not cutting it. It's not going to work this time. And then going, well what will and then really kind of confronting those incredibly harsh, tough truth questions.

Like for me it was, am I really cut out for this? Am I willing to truly answer the call for as long as it takes? You know, for whatever the cost and who do I need to be to choose that? What beliefs do I need to unhook from? What co-dependencies am I still, you know, holding onto? Where am I pleasing others over myself? I also had to look at my ego tendencies. Right? Am I choosing this so I can prove myself worthy? Or am I choosing this because I want to do it for the sake of doing it?

[Laura] Yeah. And we're talking about the context of your leadership. And it was interesting also in, in the work for me the concept of leadership, not just, I want to interrupt where you are in the Ascension model, but I just want to say that when you start to shift, whether it be the catalyst for your business or it can be a new way of being in your life, what ends up happening is it shifts everything energetically around you, can it shift your environment, it shifts your relationships. So that's a lot of walking in faith when you're going to these higher levels of ascending.

[Priscilla] Yeah. Massive faith, God, I think you're grappling onto faith with everything you've got, you know at that point. And this is, you know, during the identity crisis, it's kind of where all those old patterns, beliefs, ways of being points of view, start to dissolve and kind of like the Chrysalis phase.

[Laura] I was thinking earlier when you started talking, I thought this is really like, I don't know how cognizant the butterfly is when it's going through the metamorphosis, but it really is that it's not even just a transformation. It's like a whole transmutation, Right? A whole new way of being.

[Priscilla] It is. And I say it in the book, like the Chrysalis stage in a butterfly's growth, this is the most transformative and challenging stage. It is a liminal space where you are no longer who you were, but not yet entirely the new self you are becoming.

[Laura] Yeah. Beautiful

[Priscilla]

And man its hard! But there's good news because stage five is restructuring. So where you start to see slowly, there are some insights, there are some shifts, there are some releases, you know, and then stage six is the new level leader, which is, I have a new perspective and you really come out feeling like, your perception of self, your vision of yourself as a leader is anchored in new beliefs in a kind of strengthened courage and faith because you've gone through hell and back. And you've emerged with a new perspective, you know, that conscious of a palpable shift in identity, deep, within and anchored into your being. And it says in the book, you are confident in your ability to move forward and prosper, making the difference that only you can.

[Laura] So gorgeous. Yeah. Thank you for sharing that.

[Priscilla] Thank you for bringing that up. And it's a nice little model. It's color-coded like everything else, you know, and I walk you through you know, each of these phases and some of the questions that came up, even for me, but, you know, and this can happen in our leadership, in our business and our relationships and just even in life, you know, where we are constantly revisiting the call as we evolve and reexamining, re-prioritizing, I think through the pandemic, many of us have done that as well.

[Laura] I find, as we're recording this, now I'm almost 56. I think it's not a one and done type at all.

[Priscilla] No. The Cycle.

[Laura] The current version of that. And if we could embrace it as a normal process, this Ascension and knowing that when we're going through it. What I'm calling the transmutation, Right? That this whole idea is actually happening for us to get to the next place. But there's not a shortcut that I found yet.

[Priscilla] Neither have I and ideally, as much as we don't want the pain, by going through it, we become so much more solid in our being. It's definitely worth it, even though when you're in the midst of it. It's just hard. But before I forget, are you willing to share what your archetype is of the five?

[Laura] Yes. Yes. My archetype is the divine feminine.

[Priscilla] Do you remember anything? I'm the mystic. So do you remember anything? You mentioned collaboration. Do you remember? It may be a while since you read the book.

[Laura] Yeah, it was interesting. So I remember the pieces. I don't remember all of that but I am so I'm so excited about that, but I remembered what was really powerful for me, a couple of distinctions. One was about the bigger work. So you know, that the movement of Limitless Women is all around healing, the poverty consciousness of women in the developed world. So they can actually do our parts to collectively heal poverty. Right? So that whole communal work that I have in the current version or the current understanding I have of clarity of my own mission and my own work you know, that whole collective and community piece I can tell you that if you would've asked me about that 10 years ago, I would've said, "No, that's not me". Right?

And now today it's so clearly what Limitless Women is all about as we've developed this community and this beautiful sisterhood of women lifting each other up and using our businesses as vehicles for impact, and you as a sponsor and a donor and a supporter of our work has just been so generous with us- thank you- to collectively, the ripple effect of that has created, you know, where women are at this point. I think tens of thousands of people have been affected, if not more, maybe hundreds of thousands at this point all over the world, which is really a spectacular opportunity. Yeah. So that was very cool. That was really clearly like, oh yeah, that makes total sense now.

[Priscilla] Yeah. So the divine feminine uses collaboration and community very much because your mantra is "Together, we rise". So it's all about creating. So divine, feminine businesses and divine feminine leaders are businesses that are created by, for and with the community, it's interwoven in the cloth that you do business and how you lead. It's about collaboration. It's about cooperation. It's about the earth. It's about the people, it's about the land. It's about really seeing and hearing and honoring each individual and their contribution as they work collectively to something bigger than themselves.

[Laura] And I can just say, as a resource, I would, I would like to get this in the hands of women in our world now, not after they go through, because I can tell you we've spent so much time and so much money on branding and they always want to make it about me or they want to kind of put us into a template, for lack of a better word. Versus and I've always said, this is not the Laura Gisborne brand. This is the Limitless Women brand. Right? So we actually look at that, should, would, could. If we would've had these resources, you know, 10 years ago, five years ago, even it would be great. Well, we've got them now. So I'm excited. I'm excited to see how we move forward with this because we're just getting ready to do a whole bunch of new things in our 2022 branding. We revisit our branding regularly. We revisit our messaging regularly because it's just necessary. I just think again, as the world evolves, as we evolve as our community grows I feel like it's part of our obligation to keep staying present with what's current.

[Priscilla] I would agree with that.

[Laura] So it's going to be a great tool for us.

[Priscilla] Yay. And for those that are mystics out there and there are many, I think in our world, you know, most of the people, the women leaders in my world fall under the mystic, the visionary, the divine feminine. And the mystics, we are the intuitive, creative healers who are here to elevate consciousness and create harmony and wellbeing. And we do that through our intuitive healing and creative abilities. Right? One of the things I want to highlight, that's just becoming present to me now is that there is a very comprehensive matrix. There's a lot of looking at your archetype from a glance as well as in-depth because it can be this information is so rich that you can come back to it and really uncover layers and layers and layers of it as you evolve in your leadership. So there are moments when you can get a snapshot-like, oh yes, good reminder. Here's how to avoid these pitfalls. These are my strengths. Remember Priscilla? You know, remember Laura? Remember Jane? And there are also really great tools to come bring you back to your innate brilliance, right? As a divine feminine, you naturally live and breathe collaboration, cooperation, and bringing people together. It's just how you are. Right? And as mystics, we naturally hold space. We naturally are truth-tellers and teachers and guides. And it doesn't mean because you, you were alluding before, while I was trying to see what kind of archetypes I resonate with. We have all of these archetypes within us.

[Laura] I could see also, especially the visionary. I could see a lot of the women in my inner circle, my close girlfriends, my peers, women that I work with. I could see a lot of visionaries.

[Priscilla] Yes. And so this is not to say if you're this, you're not that, it just means that there is a dominant archetype depending on our certain cycle of life or season of business and sometimes our business based on where it's going may ask for a shift in archetype dominance to reflect what that season in business is calling for. So right now maybe divine feminine is the thing, but that doesn't mean that maybe a year from now I've seen many mystics shift into the visionary role as they're growing exponentially, automating systematizing and getting bolder and more disruptive. You know, these are the elements of the visionary in my world as well. And for the visionaries in your world, the visionary is the disruptor, right? They are here to innovate and disrupt the status quo by having out of the box strategies and ideas and going, you know there has to be a better way to do this. Let's do it now. We cannot wait. Our world would not be where it is if it weren't for the visionaries that were bold and loud and polarizing and not afraid to create systems and structures and products and services that defy the mainstream and what the world thinks is possible.

[Laura] Absolutely. So do you have any type of, I mean, besides getting the book, go get the book right now! Get the book. We want to tell you how to get it and we'll give you all that information, but do you have any advice on how to utilize this? This is actually kind of the piece that I want to hear about I could see how I could use it as a guide and a resource to go back to. But in the actual teachings, if you will, of the messaging of the book it's taking you through these and then there are thoughts for reflection and questions, things like that. Any order to this or anything you want to give us for advice and guidance?

[Priscilla] Well, I think to start with the introduction because some of the initial concepts and principles of Soulfluent Leadership® are important to embrace. The way of thinking. I think then of course then going ideally to your primary archetype, but not limiting yourself because maybe your VA, maybe your online business manager, your chief marketing officer, those people that you collaborate with. This is a great tool to actually gift to your team members so that they can then see how they can better understand you. And then you can better understand them. So you can work collaboratively because there's very much team building. Like if you have a mystic in your team, this is what you do, and if your boss is a mystic, this is how you do it...

[Laura] I appreciated that. I appreciated how there were words of advice on not only how to work with your own strengths and your own opportunities for growth, Right? But also to work with your team and how your team could communicate well with you. I thought that was a very powerful opportunity for organizations of all sizes to identify the different archetypes within the structure of the group.

[Priscilla] Yes. I think, you know if you're really new to this start with understanding the basic concepts I start contemplating what leadership really means to you, the kind of leader that you want to be and the values that you have. And then I think it's just a question of intuitively going through and seeing maybe what, you know, if you're going through some pitfalls or going through lots of self-doubts, maybe looking at the pitfalls and maybe looking at what are some of the tools that your archetype can offer so that you can stay in alignment, you know? And there's a kryptonite and antidote matrix here on page 27. It's so short, but this I developed kind of from my mind, then I got the guides to help. But because as a mystic my self-doubt has been so incredibly crippling, you know, like seriously debilitating. And so the antidote to mystic self-doubt or fear of embracing their spiritual gifts is to be authentic, which to me, I like to use the word genuine. And so that can, for me, when I enter the energy of what does being genuine on this topic really feel like? What does that truth really mean? It gets me out of my head. It gets me back into my body and mystics are natural truth-tellers and guides. What's my inner-wise woman here to embrace and share? And then I stopped trying to say the right thing. I stopped trying to figure out the right things to say or to do. What's the true thing?

[Laura] And along that same line of like the Kryptonite and the anecdotes, there was in my section four, the divine feminine was around having, you know, having gatekeepers. Have people around me to keep me because I tend to, and today was a perfect example of, I just want to squeeze in just one more thing. Here's another concept that Capal blew my mind, that you're going to giggle at me. Maybe you're just going to laugh at me. The idea of white space in my calendar.

[Priscilla] Oh, cool.

[Laura] I live, eat, breathe everything through my calendar and I teach my women to not have a to-do list. Like really use the calendar as your resource for whatever comes up that you want to give your attention to, you want to give your love, you want to give your time to write it down and put it in the calendar, make an appointment with yourself. Right? But the idea that I, that I could really benefit from some white space. My calendar was interesting for me because I tend to plan my year in advance this year has been a little interesting with some health stuff, as I shared with you before. But I tend to plan when I look at my year, we plan time off first. It's the first thing that we do. And then I plan all of my personal care and the things I need to do in the calendar first. And then the business works around those things, right? It's health, its God, its family. Then the business gets my time. But the idea that there could be some little cushions and there was some white space for creativity was like the light bulb went on for me, Priscilla. It was fantastic. Such a good concept.

[Laura] I might have heard it somewhere else before, but I never heard it like I heard it when I read it in your book.

[Priscilla] Really?

[Laura] Really.

[Priscilla] Thank you.

[Laura] Totally what I needed. Totally what I needed. So thank you.

[Priscilla] Yeah, because of the divine feminine, one of the key elements is that dance and play between structure and flow. And there can be resistance sometimes with certain divine, feminine energies around structure. Because I like to be in the flow. I like to see what I need today, you know, but there is beauty in white space because it supports creativity, self-care, inspiration, magic, presence, being in the moment and really embracing and like emerging and seeping into the magic that is the present moment. And self-care is such a big part of what the divine feminine needs to preserve energy recharge reflect and re-prioritize. And so white space can serve to check all those boxes and to give you the space and freedom that you want.

[Laura] I want to say to anybody who's listening to this, that they don't understand what white space is. It's when there's time on your calendar, that's white instead of like orange, yellow, blue, or purple, all the colors we use for the different things we're working on. That's just blank that there's not anything scheduled at that time.

[Priscilla] Correct. It's an open space for you to do whatever you want.

[Laura] In that moment. Yeah. Beautiful.

[Priscilla] I know, I can't breathe if I look at my calendar and all I see is. I feel like my air is being sucked out of me.

[Laura] If there isn't white space there.

[Priscilla] Friday and tomorrow are all white. Like there's nothing on there. I need that space so that I can recharge because my idea of a vacation, whether I'm on a vacation or a weekly work thing is that I have nothing demanding of my attention and my time and my resources.

[Laura] So beautiful. And that's, you use maybe a little different word, but that's the space where creativity lies and I talk about this frequently with our women. If you have a place like this where you want to do a creative project or you're feeling something that you want to be birthing, that's coming through you, you have to have space for it. I'm getting ready to take a few days off this week we're going to Mexico. But after that, I'm getting to take just three days in the mountains by myself just to have some space. So I think it's where all the great ideas come.

[Priscilla] And where you really recharge at such a cellular level so that you come fully embodied and present like solid. Like solidity comes from white space.

[Laura] So good. All Right? Yay! White space. All Right? My friends, the book is Soulfluent Leadership Business® Guide. It is truly a business guide that teaches you not only how to amplify your message, your visibility and your profits, but it also gives you some deep insights into who you be in the world, how you lead, how you approach things, and how you're uniquely designed. And as I said before, when I first met Priscilla she was doing personal readings and guidance and spiritual leadership. And I'm not sure exactly how much that fits into your current offerings, my love.

[Priscilla] Still there. Still there.

[Laura] You know, to have you as a resource to have you as a guide and a friend has been really priceless for me. So any final words you want to wrap up with for our community today?

[Priscilla] Yeah. I think that if you find yourself in a place where aspects of your business have either plateaued or you find that your business needs some restructuring or how you're being called to show up and lead with your team, your vision, your business, your resources are changing and you're feeling either constricted or like a new version of you is emerging that wants to be more, self-expressed more free, more alive, more bold, more fill in the blank, then this is a wonderful resource for you from a Soul Lens to understand yourself deeply in terms of your innate talents and how to apply that into what your business is calling forth next from a very aligned soulful conscious place of self-accountability, self-responsibility and self-love.

[Laura] Beautiful, a gorgeous way to wrap this up. Alright, we'll make sure that you have the links you can purchase this book on Amazon. There is a Kindle version. I highly recommend that you actually get the full workbook. Eight and a half by eleven. It is a gorgeous piece of work and it's something you're going to want to go back to again and again, and write in and play with. And it's so engaging to see it full-blown up in color. And it's a treat for yourself. So give yourself a treat and go ahead and get on Amazon and grab that book right away. And then how can people connect with you, Priscilla? After they've had an opportunity to take a look at this and the women have had a chance to dive in how do they, this is probably in the book, but let's just share with them now how they can reconnect with you personally.

[Priscilla] Yes. My website has everything on priscillastephan.com, including the quiz. If you want to take the online quiz, it takes three minutes. You can also learn more about the book about how I work with clients privately. And so there's everything there. Lots of inspiration as well. So priscillastephan.com is my home base online.

[Laura] Perfect. Alright? Well, we'll find you there, my friend. So appreciate you again, for making time and thank you for bringing this beautiful piece of work to the world.

[Priscilla] Thank you so much, Laura.

[Laura] My pleasure. All right, sweetie. Be well.

[Priscilla] Bye.

[Laura] You same. Bye.
